COMMUNICATION EXERCISE: Inviting a friend to a CCL Info Session or meeting

During this transition to post-pandemic activity it's really nice to be out and about where it's possible to run into friends in person. When this happens, consider asking your friend what they think about climate change, which is in the news more these days. Based on what you hear, perhaps invite them to a CCL meeting or social gathering. Let's practice a conversation you might have with a friend you haven't seen in 16 months.

Practice exercise

Imagine you've just run into a friend and they've asked you what you've been up to. Pique their interest with a short sentence about something you did about climate change, and turn it back to them with a question. If you hear an interest in climate change, invite them to our Informational Session or a chapter social or meeting.

Your friend: "Hi, nice to see you! What've you been up to?"

You: "I'm hugging all my friends again now that I've been vaccinated! Want one? Also, I had such a good time seeing my Citizens' Climate Lobby friends again at our last chapter meeting. Do you worry about climate change, too?"

Your friend: "I've seen some pretty distressing climate projections in the news. I'm a bit worried."

You: "It sounds like you're concerned that climate change is going to get worse?"

Your friend: "You're right. Is there something that I should be doing to help? I already recycle."

You: "Would you like to come to a meeting with me? You'll get lots of ideas and meet some neat people!"

Your friend: "Sure, I could check it out with you sometime."
